The Silence narrates the 30 years' struggle of 15 "comfort women" - former sex slaves by the Imperial Japanese Army during the WWII - for recognition and reparation. This film records the women's painful testimonies who are now mostly gone, but it also shows how these victims slowly transformed into brave activists, fighting for justice and dignity.

THIS EVENT IS MADE POSSIBLE BY STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY'S CENTER FOR KOREAN STUDIES. THIS PROGRAM IS PART OF TRAVELING SCREENING SPONSORED BY BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN COMMUNITY COLLEGE, ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE NY, AND THE WASHINGTON COALITION FOR COMFORT WOMEN ISSUE.
